INTRODUCTION

As a leading gem trading centre with a vibrant local jewellery market, Hong Kong needs qualified professional gemmologists in the industry. With the large number of synthetic and treated gemstones on the market becoming increasingly prevalent, there is a growing demand for diamond and coloured stone certificates, and there are calls from both the trade and the public for more gemmological information and training.

The Gemmological Association of Hong Kong (GAHK) was founded in 1979 and incorporated as a Company Limited by Guarantee in 1998 to meet some of these needs. For more than 4 decades, the Association has aimed to promote higher levels of professionalism, and to disseminate information about new developments of interest to the trade. In addition, the GAHK has worked to foster public interest in gemmology. GAHK produces an annual journal and organises lectures, talks, exhibitions and trips to areas of gemmological interests. Social gatherings are also arranged to promote fellowship among members.

Having two years consultations with geologists, material scientists, professors, representatives from jewellery trade associations, senior gemmologists and Hong Kong Accreditation Services, the Association established GAHK's Certification and Label Scheme for Fei Cui (Jadeite Jade) and Diamond in 2004, to enhance the consumers' confidence of the creditability of diamond and jadeite jade certificates issued by local gem testing laboratories.

In 2006, the GAHK Mandatory Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Scheme was launched to maintain, improve and broaden the members' professional competence by periodical knowledge refreshment and update. (Please visit www.gahk.org for details).

A Fellow Member who fulfills the GAHK CPD-hour accumulation requirements will be entitled to apply for "Certified Gemmologist (Diamond/ Fei Cui)" and also be eligible to apply for Hong Kong Accreditation Service assessment for performing specific gemstone testings. When passed, the member will become an "Approved Signatory" who is eligible to issue certificates in the HOKLAS laboratories.

Details are in the GAHK Guidance Notes for Mandatory Continuing Professional Development.
